PROJECTS

LIBRARY MANAGEMENT SYSTEM:

(Java, MySQL, HTML, CSS, JDBC)

- The management of libraries is an important aspect of the education system. To streamline the process of library management, it is necessary to have a well-designed system in place.
- This system should cater to the needs of both students and administrators.
- The proposed library management system aims to provide a platform for efficient library management. It has two distinct roles, one for students and another for administrators.
- The system includes features such as registration and login, book search, request, cancel, return, and book and user management.
- The system is designed to be user-friendly and efficient, enabling easy management of books and users.

G-ONE

- Developed "G-One," an AI voice assistant using Python to enhance user experience and productivity.
- Implemented voice recognition functionality using Speech Recognition package to understand user commands.
- Utilized various packages including Web Browser, Wikipedia, DateTime, SubProcess, and Pytsx3 to enable diverse functionalities such as web search, information retrieval, system subprocesses, and text-to-speech conversion.

INTERNSHIP

NTT DATA

- Completed a 3-month internship at NTT Data, where I gained practical experience in Java, MySQL, HTML, CSS, JSP. During this time, I worked on projects that honed my skills in web development and database management, contributing to my proficiency in these technologies.
